Jim:

Here is the Senate report that Duane Andrews of HPSCI read from when I talked with them about the OTA C₃I study.

It was the discussion of this topic in the DoD authorization bill (p. 104 et seq.) that Duane was talking about, not a separate, dedicated C₃I report, although I am certain that there is a good deal of staff work behind the report language which the OTA people could probably use to good advantage.

I'm drafting a response to Stevens, and will have it in to you in a short while.

As I mentioned yesterday, I don't think that SI/TK alone will satisfy the OTA group. We will almost certainly be asked for more clearances, but I suppose that we can face that when it happens.
